

ULTIMATE TEXAS HOLD'EM

In Ultimate Texas Hold 'Em the players and the dealer receive two cards each to make their best five card hand using five community cards. The dealer qualifies with a pair or better. When the dealer does not qualify, the Ante wager is returned and all other wagers receive action.

Ultimate Texas Hold'Em is played with standard 52-card deck. Two cards are distributed by the dealer to each player and themselves from an automatic shuffling machine. An additional 5 cards are then spread face down to be revealed as "The Flop" (first three cards), and "The Turn/River" (remaining two cards.) The payouts are printed on the table at each player spot.

HOW TO PLAY ULTIMATE TEXAS HOLD'EM

To begin play, the player must make an Ante and Blind wager (these wagers must equal one another.) Prior to cards being dealt, the player may also place an optional Trips wager.

After viewing their cards, to continue play, the player has the option to make a Play wager of three or four times their ante, or check. Once this stage of play is complete, the dealer will reveal the first three community cards. Once the three card flop—the first three community cards—are exposed the player may bet two times their Ante wager or check. The dealer then reveals the last two community cards. After all community cards are exposed, if players have not made a Play wager they may make a Play wager equal to their Ante wager, or fold.

If your hand beats the dealer's hand your Play and Ante bets win even money. If you tie, those bets push.
